- Atmink, kad mirsi! - rėkė skinamos gėlės.

O jaunuoliui nė motais. Skynė, merkė ir tiesiai aliejum į drobę.

Dabar jau amžinos gėlės iš paveisklo, ramiai:

- Atmink, jog mirsi...

O jaunuolis, ilgai nesukęs galvos, merkė rankas į dažus

Merkė akis, kaklą, krūtinę, blauzdas ir lig pačio paskutiniojo kulniuko įlindo.

Tada, balta drobule apsivijęs, trynėsi, godžiai gėrėsi ir tirpo joje.

Štai stovi prieš drobę, iš jos pavidalas taria, jog nepamirštų jaunuolis numirt.

O tam - nė motais, ar gyvens, ar numirs.

Žino, tikrasis Jis jau drobėje ir drobėje per amžius liks.

- Memento mori, my dear friend! - The flowers screamed, as a young man was picking them of the ground.

The young man didn't listen and put them into the canvas with paint.

Now, the flowers spoke calmly out of the eternal painting:

- Memento mori...

Still, the young man was soaked his hands into the paint.

Soaked his eyes, his chest, shins, until the last heel.

Then, after wrapping himself into the white canvas, he ardently rubbed himself onto it.

Now as he is standing in front of it, the figure is telling him, that he must not forget to die.

But he doesn't care, whether he lives or dies.

The young man knows, that the real him is already in the canvas, and in the canvas he will forever be.
