Artist Statement

So many words can wait for right moments for the perfect meaning. For example, you can wait a friend, lover our train. It's still waiting for something, but never the same conceptual meaning. Nowadays we have problem to wait, because everything is one click away and nobody wants to wait too long. People expecting to have everything wright now fast and easy. We have our daily mainstream life run for some fame or some better job opportunity, but we never have that moment to stop, to see spinning world around us and feel a moment of peace and joy.

That's why I depict my view of the sculpture in my painting. Which marks the meaning and importance of the time, and our daily life moments. My vision was to create a piece of art, where the viewer can see, and can feel the peace and still moments of our daily life. The time and rush don't exist anymore, try to enjoy the moment of now.

I'm getting my inspiration in traveling. Last year I got a chance to visit Portugal and the capital city Lisbon has created a new visual perspective in my perception and vision. The freedom of people and bright colours of the city architecture was an inspiration point to capture the moment in the paintings. It's an important part to see and capture the lights and shadows interactions and the details of colors and contrasts. In this painting depicting the sculpture as a symbol of the moment in history and at the same time part of today and part of local nature.
